

Informed Consent

Liposuction

INSTRUCTIONS

This document is about informed consent. It will tell you about liposuction surgery. It will outline the risks and other treatment options.

It is important that you read the whole document carefully. Please initial each page. Doing so means you have read the page. Signing the consent agreement means that you agree to the surgery that you have talked about with your plastic surgeon.

GENERAL INFORMATION

In liposuction, fat is removed from the body. It can be done to the face and neck, upper arms, trunk, abdomen, buttocks, hips and thighs, knees, calves, and ankles. It is not meant to reduce weight. It removes fat that does not go away with diet or exercise. Liposuction can be done alone to shape the body or with other surgeries, like a facelift, abdominoplasty, or thigh lift, to tighten any loose skin and the organs under it.

Liposuction works for people of normal weight but have some extra fat. If you have firm, elastic skin, you will have better results. Skin that is soft and thin from stretch marks, weight loss, or natural aging will not reshape as well. You may need more surgeries to remove and tighten extra skin. Liposuction does not fix uneven spots in your body that are not related to fat. Liposuction alone does not fix dimpled skin or “cellulite.”

Liposuction (also called suction-assisted lipectomy) is surgery. We will use a hollow metal tool (called a cannula). It will enter your body through a small cut in your skin. It will be moved over the fat. The cannula is connected to a vacuum, and the suction removes the fat.

Fluid containing lidocaine and epinephrine is injected into the fat. This causes the blood vessels to shrink, reducing blood loss and bruising. The lidocaine reduces pain. Fat is then sucked out with a vacuum tube known as a liposuction cannula.

You should wear compression clothing to control swelling and heal better.

ALTERNATIVE TREATMENTS

There are other ways of dealing with the extra fat. You can choose not to have the surgery to remove the fat. Diet and exercise may help you lose weight and improve your shape. Your surgeon may need to remove the extra skin and fat along with a liposuction. You may also want to think about going in for heating or cooling therapy to reduce the fat. These treatments do not involve surgery. You can talk to your doctor about deoxycholic acid. It breaks down and absorbs fat. All alternate surgeries have risks and possible problems.

RISKS OF LIPOSUCTION SURGERY

Every surgery has risks. It is important that you understand the risks and the possible problems that can result from them. All procedures have limits. Choosing to have a surgery means comparing the risks and benefits. Most patients do not face problems, but you should talk about them with your plastic surgeon. Make sure you understand all possible outcomes of liposuction.

SPECIFIC RISKS OF LIPOSUCTION SURGERY*Patient Selection:

If you are obese or have soft or thin skin, medical problems, the wrong idea about what the surgery can do, then liposuction may not be right for you.

Liposuction in General:

When the surgeon injects the watered-down local anesthesia and epinephrine into the fat, it may lead to fluid overload. You may have a systemic reaction to these medications. You may need more treatment and spend more time in the hospital.

Liposuction for Subcutaneous Fat

Liposuction can only address subcutaneous fat (the fat underneath the skin). Liposuction cannot address visceral fat (the fat underneath muscles). Visceral fat can only be addressed with diet and exercise. Liposuction cannot address obesity.

Skin Shrinkage after Liposuction

It can take months for swelling to go down post surgery. Your skin may not shrink back tightly around the areas where subcutaneous fat has been removed. You may not have uniform results within the area where liposuction was performed.

Unhappy with Appearance

You may not be satisfied with the results from a liposuction procedure. You may not be happy with the way your skin shrinks back around the treated area. The area where liposuction is performed may not heal symmetrically. You may not feel the results are a dramatic enough change.

Damage to Structures:

You may get injured around the area where the liposuction is done. The surgery may cause problems in your blood vessels and nerves. If you have it done around your belly, the surgery could damage your bowel, bladder, or abs. If you have it done around your chest, one of your lungs could collapse. These events are exceptionally rare.

DISCLAIMER

Informed consent documents give you information about a surgery you are considering. These documents explain the risks of that surgery. They also discuss other treatment options, including not having surgery.

However, informed consent documents can't cover everything. Your plastic surgeon may give you more or different information. This may be based on the facts of your case.

Informed consent documents are not meant to define or serve as the standard of medical care. Standards of medical care are determined based on the facts involved in an individual case. They may change with advances in science and technology. They can also change with the way doctors practice medicine.

It is important that you read the above information carefully and get all your questions answered before signing the consent agreement on the next page.
